

These regulations have been approved by the Environmental Protection Agency. Training providers approved to present these Nebraska disciplines follow a model accreditation program and issue a certificate that is accepted nationwide.

These regulations are required in order for any municipality, organization, or agency wishing to apply for federal funding.