Public Education and Outreach

The Nebraska Equal Opportunity Commission (NEOC) was created August 1965, with Legislative Bill 656 enacted by the people of Nebraska to establish in writing a public policy and practice against employment discrimination under the Nebraska Fair Employment Practice Act. The decision to enforce anti-discrimination laws was a furtherance of the actions of the people of this country to assure equal protection of human and civil rights beginning with the United States Constitution and amendments, the Bill of Rights, and the civil rights movement. The State of Nebraska inhabitants, as individuals and businesses, are strengthened as a result of these core values modeled in the five laws enforced through the NEOC. These core values include allowing individuals to work, live, and enjoy the public and private benefits of the state regardless of their protected class membership. In practice, the existence of the NEOC means that one person, believing that he or she has not received fair treatment, may file a charge of discrimination against an employer; a housing provider; a labor organization; a state or local government entity; or against a business providing goods and services to the general public. Both parties to the charge shall receive a neutral handling of the charge - without bias or influence. The neutrality of the NEOC means that a person who has actually suffered from a discriminatory practice should realize a remedy for the harm. The entity filed against is also made aware of the violation of the law.

The enforcement and protection of these laws means the NEOC has a duty to collaborate with groups to provide education about the laws. Though larger and larger strides are made in our state towards assuring equal protection and opportunity, the need for education continues because of social and economic changes created in businesses and communities. Without cost to over 2,000 recipients, the NEOC offered speakers who provided technical training for employers and housing industry professionals. Some of the resources used include current court decisions and federal and state legal instructions which provide guidelines for best practices. The NEOC is set-up to help the public by answering telephone inquiries as well as providing information on the website. In general, the NEOC addressed employee and housing consumer issues through participation in seminars and other outreach settings.

Through collaborations with other agencies, the NEOC developed a cooperative working relationship with our partners in the employment and housing enforcement communities to ensure that anti-discrimination laws are enforced. As an example of a partnership, the NEOC partnered with realtors in providing technical training on issues of housing discrimination for which the realtors obtained 3 C.E.U. credits through the Nebraska Real Estate Commission. The trainings were conducted in the cities of Chadron, Gering, Norfolk, and Nebraska City, to name a few. Persons traveled over 50 miles to attend, coming from Alliance, Gordon, South Sioux City, and Battle Creek. On the average, over 100 persons participated this year in this training without a cost to the realtors.

Staff regularly attended quarterly realtor association meetings to exchange information related to types of complaints filed and changes in housing laws. Tenants and prospective tenants have attended training on the Nebraska Landlord and Tenant laws to learn their rights and responsibilities. NEOC is frequently asked to present to professional colleagues at regional meetings to cover employment and housing issues. Again, this is provided without cost to participants.

The NEOC conducted training pursuant to NEOC, EEOC and HUD settlement agreements. The number of attendees for a session related to mandatory training is generally smaller; although, some businesses have required their entire staff participate. One business required all 700 plus employees attend. In some instances there may only be one or two persons in attendance, but the impact is enormous because persons attending the smaller sessions are usually decision-makers who turn around and establish a policy or practice for the entire business. Professional organizations and law offices have asked the NEOC to present to its members and clients. The topics of interest generally cover current discrimination issues such as interpretation of the ADA Amendments Act of 2008 and workplace harassment.

Many high schools, colleges, and universities of the state have requested and received presentations. Nebraska's youth have benefitted from education on topics covering discrimination and diversity; specifically, interest was shown in preventing workplace harassment and other issues centered around workplaces and shelters. The NEOC also provided education and resources to academic institutions for current and future businesses. The presentations included ethical and non-discriminatory practices for future business pioneers. A training was coordinated by the NEOC, in collaboration with other agencies and groups, geared toward the new immigrant population. New immigrants have been attracted to and afforded holistic orientation into Nebraska culture and its resources.

The NEOC website continues to attract viewers. It serves as a unique source of material for guidance on pressing technical questions related to popular discrimination topics. Perhaps due in part to the persistence of the public to seek information about lawful requirements, and because the reputation of the NEOC is reliable in providing answers regarding labor and housing law, the NEOC website reaches over 400 persons each month.

TABLE 1: CASE SUMMARY

The Commission started using a new charge tracking system October, 2009. Because of the new system, the Commission changed its procedure of assigning case numbers to charges that are filed. In the past, a charge number was assigned for each law cited in a charge. The Commission now assigns one number per charge filed.

Of the 1,042 cases closed in FY 11/12, 1,009 were Commission initial actions; 28 were actions on cases in the conciliation stage; 1 was a decision on a case in the public hearing stage; and 4 were pursuant to civil action (housing).

Of the 721 cases to be completed in FY 11/12, 704 cases are to be investigated; 11 cases are in conciliation; 1 case is in public hearing; and 5 housing cases are in civil action.

Along with the above stated data, there were 74,142 hits to the NEOC home page in FY 11/12. The web site is updated at least two times a month. The web site allows people to check upcoming Commission Meeting information, as well as educational information. Individuals also have the opportunity to learn about the Commission, the laws, and how to file a complaint.

In 2004/2005 the NEOC developed the Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) program. The focus of ADR is to resolve pending employment and public accommodation cases prior to an investigation and determination being issued by the Commission. There are two options available in the ADR program: mediation and pre-determination settlement. Mediation typically involves the parties meeting face-to-face with a mediator to discussion resolution; whereas, pre-determination settlement involves discussion of resolution between the parties as relayed (usually via telephone) by the mediator.

Participation in the program is done on a voluntary basis. As the table indicates, when parties actively participate in the program there is a high rate of successful resolution. However, there are times when the parties indicate an interest in the ADR program, but after an initial discussion, determine they no longer want to participate in the process and request an investigation. These discussions are not considered unsuccessful as the parties never fully engaged in the process.

HIGHLIGHTS....

In addition to the ADR program, the NEOC attempts to resolve employment and public accommodation cases during an investigation prior to the NEOC issuing a determination. In FY 11/12 the NEOC resolved 22 cases during the investigative stage.

The NEOC also endeavors to resolve housing cases. Discussions regarding resolution are an on-going process throughout the investigation for all housing cases. In FY 11/12 the NEOC settled 17 housing cases.

NEB 1-09/10-12-41104-RS

Davis vs. Lincoln Public Schools

Disability and Retaliation (Failure to Accommodate, Discipline and Termination)

The Complainant alleged that due to the Respondent not granting him a reasonable accommodation he was disciplined and terminated. The Commission found Reasonable Cause. The case was forwarded to public hearing. Prior to the public hearing the parties entered into a settlement. The Hearing Officer recommended this matter be dismissed based on the fact the parties settled this case. The Commission accepted the Hearing Officer's recommendation and closed this case.
